

Hi All,

Just wanted to send you a quick note about getting the word out about FoCH via channel 5's Kaleidoscope program.

So... Saturday I went down to Channel 5 and taped a segment on an episode of Kaleidoscope that will air November 8 at 10 am. It will air again at 5 am a week or so later (I don't remember the exact date on the second airing. I apologize. They only said it once, in the studio and I didn't have anything to write it down with at the time).

In any case, I think it went fairly well. I say "fairly" because the time they allot each guest is very short and so it's impossible to say everything you want to say.

In any case, the biggest thing I said, repeatedly, was that we need money and volunteers and can be contacted via the FoCH website. I talked briefly about how C/H is a great place to learn decision making skills and confirmed after a question from Leon Bibb, that the camp has helped make me what I am today because of the opportunity for that decision making process. I also noted that this camp is something that we need because young girls need places where they can be themselves. I also got in a brief plug about the history that FoCH is uncovering and that some of the property once belonged to James Kirby.

The taping went by very quickly, so I hope I'm giving an accurate representation of what I said.

In any case, it was a blast to do and I think we should definitely continue to seek out opportunities like this, especially as we get more programming and service projects up and running. I kept trying to slide in something about our upcoming projects, but didn't get to it, instead talking about the need for money and volunteers.

Hopefully something good will come of this!
